Dear Dr. Winter,

I am working with Dr. Paul Hertig (Azusa Pacific University) to compile an anthology of missiological writings from the past sixty years. We are seeking to identify the most influential articles and/or chapters that have changed the way we think about mission. We will then compile these into an Intercultural Studies Anthology to be a resource for missionaries and students of mission.

We value your contribution to the discipline of missiology and would appreciate you identifying one or two articles and/or chapters that you have written that you feel have made a difference in the field.

It would also be helpful if you would submit the titles of three to five articles/chapters by other missiologists that you consider to be influential in shaping the development of missions. Thank you very much for your input into this project.

Sincerely,

Robert L. Gallagher, Ph.D.
